UPRR Crossing through Central Park No Longer Available

November, 2010

In recent weeks, Union Pacific Railroad (UPRR) police have been turning back pedestrians attempting to access Fremont Central Park from the Gomes neighborhood, by a trail crossing the UPRR tracks east of Central Park. To ensure pedestrian safety during BART construction, the trail will be fenced within a few weeks to close pedestrian access.

While the trail crossing the tracks is a popular way to access Central Park, it is not an authorized entry and poses a potential hazard to public safety – especially during the current construction activity. The City of Fremont is working with UPRR to install a permanent, at-grade crossing that will allow residents to cross the UPRR tracks to Central Park safely as early as summer 2011.

If you have questions regarding these activities, please contact BART's project information line at (510) 476-3900, or email at bartwarmsspringsextension@bart.gov or visit our Community Relations Field office located at 1320 Stevenson Boulevard in Fremont Central Park, Monday – Friday 8 am to 5 pm. You may also contact the City of Fremont at (510) 494-4796.
